Drug Price Markups Under Attack

Investigators Claim Price Hiked 7079%

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators said Monday a major drug firm bought a medicine for 11.7 cents a batch and then resold it to druggists for $8.40—an estimated markup of 7,079 percent.

At the same time, the Senate Antitrust subcommittee produced figures it said showed the Schering Corp. of Bloomfield, N. J., jacked up the wholesale price of another drug by 2,757 percent from 28 cents to $8.

Staff data on the two drugs—both used against female disorders—were brought up after Francis C. Brown, Schering's president, had described a previous charge by the subcommittee as "misleading and valueless."

Challenge Figure
Brown challenged an estimate by subcommittee Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), that Schering applied a 1,118 per cent markup over production costs for prednisolone, an arthritis-asthma medicine derived from cortisone. Developed by Schering, this drug is marketed under the name Meticortelone.

Staff specialists said Schering made that medicine for 1.6 cents a tablet and set a wholesale price of 12.9 cents and a suggested retail price of 29.8 cents. Included were costs of preparing and bottling the tablets, but not of marketing them.

Kefauver and his aides produced charts they said showed Schering and three major competitors—Merck, Upjohn and Pfizer—handled the arthritis-asthma drug prednisolone at identical prices—$17.90 for a bottle of 100 tablets.

The charts listed a smaller firm, Physicians Drug and Supply Co., as selling the preparation for $4.85 a hundred.

Defends Practice
Testimony about Schering's pricing practices developed as the Senate subcommittee opened public hearings on whether drug houses were charging too much at the wholesale level and, if so, whether Congress should do something about it.

Defending his firm's pricing policies, Brown declared: "The best indication that Schering's prices were not excessive and that its products were good is found in the ready acceptance given them by the medical profession."

In challenging Kefauver's 1,118 per cent markup estimate for prednisolone, Brown said his company's recent profits amounted to 16 per cent of sales.

It was then that the subcommittee confronted Brown with figures purporting to show a 7,079 per cent markup for a drug marketed as progynon and 2,757 per cent for another drug sold as estinyl, both used in treatment of female disorders. These markups did not include costs of tableting, bottling, or selling.

But the drug company head argued that production cost was only one of many factors that had to be considered in setting a price. Among other expenses he mentioned costly research as well as marketing the product and spreading information about it among doctors.

Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) remained skeptical, however, saying it looked like "an awfully big spread" between production cost and wholesale price.

Placed in evidence by the subcommittee staff were charts showing Schering had made profits as high as 46.9 per cent as measured against net worth and 19.4 per cent as against sales volume. Kefauver called this "remarkable profitability."

The subcommittee's inquiry is concerned with drug prices at the wholesale level only. It follows, though, that the wholesale price largely dictates the retail price paid by the consumer at the drug store.

At the outset of the hearing, Kefauver said the Senate group was acting after receiving complaints from many parts of the nation that prices of many prescription medicines have risen so high that persons of limited income, particularly the elderly, can hardly afford them.

Danger Of New Aggression

Experts See Chinese Red Threat

WASHINGTON (AP)—A panel of foreign policy experts warned Monday night of a danger of new aggression by Red China and said Russia's current peace drive is a tactic aimed at expanding Soviet power.

It also called on U.S. leaders to stop "joking along from crisis to crisis" and develop daring and creative new foreign policies to help shape a new and peaceful order in world affairs.

The 30,000-word report was prepared under the sponsorship of the Rockefeller Brothers Fund. It laid special emphasis on the need of the nation's leaders to obtain maximum public discussion of foreign policy issues by providing full information even on such matters as nuclear armaments, where possible. Otherwise, the report said, negotiations with the Soviet Union tend to become simply "sterile or dangerous bartering."

Such negotiations were advocated on the ground that the United States must take advantage of every opportunity to try to resolve outstanding issues with the Communist world. But the report declared that this country must maintain its military capacity to fight either general or local wars if force is necessary to preserve its vital interests.

No Retreat

The report warned against any retreat from West Berlin or any agreement which would dissolve the North Atlantic Alliance or allow West Germany to fall within the Soviet orbit.

Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's new tactic, it said, is more subtle and complex but no less menacing than the old tactic of threat and force in the Stalinist years.

"If Soviet aims were merely greater economic welfare for itself and for its neighbors," the report said, "it might be a cause for rejoicing. In fact, however, supported by propaganda, infiltration and subversion, aided by the implied threat of its military power, the Soviet Regime gives every evidence that it hopes to expand until it has gained a clear preponderance of power in the world."

Explosive Factors

Turning to Communist China, the report said it is "in a posture which, in the past historical experience, has almost invariably led to aggression."

China, it said, has a rapidly growing population, a shortage of vital resources and a fanatical ideology, while "soft situations" exist in many of its neighboring countries.

Furthermore, Red China looks upon the United States as its "supreme enemy, the one major obstacle" to its domination of all Asia. Its "overriding political and strategic aim is undoubtedly to undermine American influence, to separate the United States from its friends and supporters in Asia, and to force the withdrawal of United States defensive forces."

The report suggested that eventually Red China's growing strength—especially if it acquires atomic weapons—may put heavy strains upon its relations with Russia. The United States must try to avoid courses of action which drive China closer to the Soviets, it advised.

Two former Assistant Secretaries of State, Dean Rusk, president of the Rockefeller Foundation and Adolf A. Berle Jr., attorney, are among the 14 members of the foreign policy panel.

Senate Unit Boosts Aid For Schools

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee Monday night approved a 375-million-dollar boost in the ceiling on state-aided school construction.

Scores of school districts have held up building projects since the current ceiling of 925 million dollars was reached more than a year ago.

Under the House-passed measure, the current ceiling would jump to $1,150,000,000 in the current school year and to $1,300,000,000 in the 1960-61 school year.

Third Step Killed

The Senate appropriations unit knocked out a proposed third step up to $1,400,000,000 in 1961-62. Another Senate amendment removes multipurpose rooms, such as cafeterias that become auditoriums, as a basis for state aid.

The action came after Senate Republicans decided against a final adjournment of the 1959 Legislature until the day before the 1960 Legislature convenes next Jan. 5.

The schedule would stymie efforts by Gov. Lawrence to bring about interim Democratic control of the Public Utility Commission. Two Democrats named to vacancies must receive Senate confirmation before assuming office.

The snowstorm forced the House into an abbreviated session.

Public Welfare Merger — The Senate gave unanimous approval to a series of House-passed bills completing technical aspects of the merger of the public assistance and welfare departments into the department of public welfare.

Turnpike — The Senate adopted unanimously a resolution authorizing three of its members to confer with the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission and the State Highways Department on traffic problems created by tunnels on the superhighway.

School Subsidies — The Senate set up a timetable to pass a 16-million-dollar increase in state aid to schools by the end of the week and return the measure to the House to seek a compromise.

As passed by the House, the school subsidy measure carried a 55-million-dollar price tag.

Senate Move Denounced By Andrews

HARRISBURG (AP) — The proposed 16-million-dollar increase in school subsidies is "just another gesture," House Speaker H. G. Andrews said Monday.

"It is designed to delay the time when the General Assembly grapples with the problem of financing the schools in some common-sense, determined fashion," Andrews said in an interview.

The subsidy increase is now before the Senate, where it is expected to be passed later this week. Final passage of the increase, however, is uncertain because of a dispute over financing it.

Storm Maroons Hundreds Of People In Restaurant

MORGANTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Hundreds of motorists were stranded for hours on the snow-slick Pennsylvania Turnpike Monday.

Five miles east of the Morgantown interchange the westbound road was jammed with abandoned cars for a mile and a half.

Drivers crowded into a nearby restaurant, the same one that became a haven for scores of travelers in a blizzard nearly two years ago.

For one man it was history repeating itself, although with less drama and fewer rigors. In the big March 19 snowstorm of 1958 he had to leave his automobile on the turnpike and take refuge in the restaurant. As were the others, he was there for two days and nights.

NO MATCH TODAY—There were no greens at any of Poconos' famed golf courses yesterday. They were all white, as this camera shot shows. Although snowfall was not as heavy as in some sections, it and brisk wind were sufficient reminders of things to come. Winter, incidentally, arrives Dec. 22 at 9:35 a.m. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Snow Reaches 1 To 4 Inches

SNOW FELL on the Pocono Mountains area yesterday, but not as heavily as in many other sections of Pennsylvania and elsewhere along the East Coast.

Heaviest snowfall in Pennsylvania was 12 inches in Lancaster County. This compared with the one to four inches which fell in Monroe County. It came on the heels of a two-day rainfall of 1.14 inches.

Area state police last night reported varying amounts of snow and road conditions.

Up to Four Inches

At Milford, troopers reported accumulations of one to two inches in outlying areas and said highways had been salted and cindered. State Police at Mount Pocono reported three to four inches and said roads were icy. About two inches fell in the Stroudsburgs.

Lehigh reported three-quarters of an inch and said highways were slippery, while Fern Ridge barracks said snow was blowing and drifting. Highways were bad, troopers said, but State Highways Department crews were working on them.

The Blue Mountain Civil Defense Control Center at Wind Gap also reported roads slippery.

The State Highway Department had a heavy complement of men out last night working against the weather conditions.

Roads Passable

Frank Smith, highway maintenance superintendent of Monroe County, said that the roads were in a passable condition but when driving all motorists should exercise extreme caution.

Smith had the following equipment in operation: Twenty-two trucks, four loaders, three graders, one shovel, 14 pick-ups and 65 men. The equipment and men will be in operation all night or until the roads are once again back in normal conditions, he said.

State Police of the Stroudsburg Barracks reported that Route 611 north of Mount Pocono was slippery and that the use of chains was advisable.

Local police from Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg said that travel on the main streets of both towns was in fair condition but that the other streets were slippery.

The weather forecast for the area is variable cloudiness, windy and cold with scattered snow flurries.

Polaris Makes Successful Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A Polaris missile streaked 900 miles to an Atlantic target Monday, marking the second straight success for this potentially deadly submarine weapon. The Navy announced one of the primary goals was to gather data on the performance of the guidance mechanism.

Carries Hope For Peace To Red Neighbor

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — President Eisenhower, glowing after his tumultuous, cheering reception in Pakistan, turned Tuesday to one of the busiest days of his 22,000-mile peace mission.

The talks with leaders of this enthusiastic ally of the United States promised to be among the most important of his trip. This country is a near neighbor of both Soviet Asia and Red China.

Eisenhower got down to business quickly in morning discussions with Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan on this nation's problems as a strategic link in a chain of anti-Communist defenses and as a crossroads for the Middle East and Asia.

Busy Schedule

A dozen separate events were on Eisenhower's schedule including the talks, and his first formal speech on the Pakistan-India subcontinent.

Karachi showed how much it liked Ike with a spectacular welcome by an estimated million persons who lined his route from the airport into the city of two million persons Monday.

The American President was set to assure Karachi that America likes Pakistan. He is giving a sympathetic ear to a long list of political, military and economic problems besetting a country living in the shadow of the two Communist giants.

Eisenhower left his quarters early for the busy schedule. It began with a quick trip to the U.S. Embassy residence, a short drive from the President's house where he is staying.

Kashmir Dispute

His purpose there was to give a brief informal talk to the American community, assembled in the garden of the embassy residence.

Twenty minutes later Eisenhower's tight schedule had him behind closed doors with Pakistan's president.

The U.S. chief executive was almost certain to hear arguments from his host in favor of removing obstacles between India and Pakistan, long at odds over Kashmir. The President goes to Afghanistan Wednesday and, later this week, to India.

The Pakistani arguments come in view of the threat to the whole subcontinent by Red Chinese incursions, particularly with regard to the Lakdash area of Kashmir.

The talk between the Pakistani leader and Eisenhower was to be only the first of several such discussions. Other leaders of this nation of 87 million also will meet with the American visitor.

But a visit such as Eisenhower's, in a city that welcomed him with such affection, entailed public appearances too.

Such appearances were made in Italy and Turkey, the two previous stops on the 11-nation tour that is taking Eisenhower to Europe, the Middle East and Asia.

Tent Pegging

Among the activities on the day's schedule were a display of tent pegging by the Pakistani President's mounted bodyguard, a wreath-laying ceremony at the tomb of Pakistan's founder, M. A. Jinnah, a glimpse at a cricket match between Pakistan and Australia; a luncheon given by President Ayub Khan and Eisenhower's formal speech.

His hosts also planned to take Eisenhower in a helicopter trip over Karachi, particularly to show him the Korangi township development where Moslem refugees from Hindu India are housed.

He said they found him unconscious with an injured head in a Belgrade square and took him to a hospital.

In a postscript the letter writer said he also would like to know their address so he could pick up his new winter coat which they "probably being in a hurry, took off me while carrying me to the hospital."

Belgian Congo Pastor To Speak In Eastburg

THE REV. JOHN Wesley Shungu, pastor in the Belgian Congo in the Wembo Nyama District, will speak in the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church on Friday night.

Rev. Shungu is a graduate of the mission primary schools of the Belgian Congo and a graduate of the Bible school maintained by the Methodist Church there. He later was graduated from the School of Theology at Old Untali in Southern Rhodesia. In the years 1952 and 1956 he was a delegate to the general conferences of the Methodist Church.

He is a part of the group of preachers from other countries participating in the "Mission to America." This mission is to establish a better basis of understanding between the younger churches and the parent church. And, to give encouragement to American Methodists as to the effectiveness of the missionary movement within the church.

He will be speaking directly after a pot-luck family dinner held in the church dining room at 6:15 p.m. Any persons outside the congregation who desire to attend the dinner are most cordially welcome. They should contact the church office for further details.

- Q. Why do a husband and wife who won't need maternity benefits have to pay the same dues as those for the "Family" agreements where they do us maternity benefits?
- A. Almost invariably, these are older persons. A hospital case for them will mean a more serious illness, requiring a longer stay and costlier treatment than the average case. Studies proved the "Husband and Wife" memberships were costing as much as, if not more than, "Family" memberships, so dues were made the same.

CD Alerts, All-Clear Sounds Heard

MONROE COUNTY Civil Defense headquarters reported last night that the two alerts and the all-clear sounded yesterday were heard in practically all parts of the county.

While still checking reports, it appeared coverage was "pretty good", a spokesman said.

The test was designed to make the public more familiar with the yellow and red alerts and all-clear signals. It was the second part of an exercise which started Nov. 18 with a control center problem.

Public By Paced
There was no public participation such as stopping traffic or requiring citizens to take cover.

The yellow alert, or first signal, was received from state CD headquarters at Harrisburg at 6:15 p.m., the take cover at 6:46 and the all clear at 7:01 p.m.

Amateur radio operators manned the Monroe County Court-house headquarters. Fire departments throughout the county opened radio base operations and sounded their signals on radio instructions.

Binkley Gets Suspended Sentence

THEODORE R. Binkley, Jr., 27, Pocono Summit, charged with leaving the scene of an accident in which two persons died last Sept. 26, was given a suspended sentence in Monroe County Court yesterday.

Judge Fred W. Davis placed him on probation for one year and fined him $200 and costs to be paid on the basis of $50 down and $15 weekly. Binkley pleaded guilty to the charge.

Patrolman Robert Redzig of Stroudsburg police said Binkley was the driver of the car which struck the body of Carl (Corky) Smith of East Stroudsburg as he lay on Stroudsburg's Ninth St. following an earlier accident.

Smith and Phelps Prescott, also of East Stroudsburg, died as the result of the earlier crash in which it was established the car driven by Prescott failed to turn a curve and hit a utility pole.

A subsequent coroner's inquest established that Smith was dead before Binkley's car struck him. Binkley told the court he panicked after the accident. He surrendered himself to police later the same day.

Pleads Guilty
Charles Richard Brink of Tannersville, charged with the Nov. 14 burglary of the Hofbrau at Tannersville, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to one and one-half to three years in Eastern State Penitentiary and fined $100 and costs.

Brink was represented by J. Joseph McCluskey, court-appointed attorney. His 1001 amounted to about $50 worth of pennies and he was picked up by State Police of the Stroudsburg barracks later in the day.

Michael LeRoy Bond, 18, Saylorburg, RD 1, and Ernest Keller Williams, 18, Saylorburg, entered guilty pleas to charges of malicious mischief.

Williams, charged on three counts, was placed on probation for 18 months and directed to pay fines of $100 and costs on each charge.

Bond, charged in only one indictment, was placed on probation for three months and fined $100 and costs. Judge Davis originally set his probation at one year, then recalled the defendant to court and reduced the period.

Robert Nafus, originally sentenced to three to 23 months in Monroe County Jail on larceny charges and paroled last month, was directed to pay $10 every two weeks on his fine and costs and was directed to return to court on the first Monday in April.

Area Woman Wanders Away Snow Hampers Search

PARADISE VALLEY — A 48-year-old woman wandered away from her home here yesterday afternoon. Wind-whipped snow and darkness hampered the efforts of search parties.

Wearing Green Coat
Miss Madeline Summerfield was last seen between 3 and 3:30 p.m. at the home of her brother, Arthur Granitzki, with whom she makes her home here.

Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Granitzki, said last night she apparently was wearing a green coat at the time.

Members of the Mount Pocono Fire Department, Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters and the rescue squad from Tobyhanna Signal Depot joined in the search.

Other fire departments were alerted and were on a stand-by basis if needed.

No Longer Suppressed

Two carpenters have asked an Indiana Circuit Court to appoint monitors to straighten out the big Carpenters Union under provisions of the Landrum-Griffin labor control law.

The suit should be of interest not only to members of all unions, but to law enforcement officials in Indiana, headquarters for the Carpenters Union.

It charges that union money was used to prevent prosecution of union officials indicted two years ago on charges of bribing a former state highway department official in connection with a land deal said to have netted them $80,000.

The two carpenters also charge that their union's leadership dominated the threatened opponents, gagged rivals at union conventions, destroyed key union records and even withheld pensions of elderly members who opposed them.

Prior to the Landrum-Griffin law such protests could be nicely suppressed by those who "ran" the union.

Now the carpenter bosses face a new fact of life that Jimmy Hoffa of the Teamsters already has confronted: that rank and file democracy has at least found a climate in which it can live.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Spirit Of Christmas Present

We're beginning to think Scrooge was right the first time.

Take what's been happening to the steelworkers, just back on the job after a four months strike. Instead of being greeted with a "Where have you been?" they've been met with a cherry "Good Morning!" Some of the bosses, so the steel union's newspaper informs us, have "gone out of their way" to call old acquaintances by name when greeting them at the gate. Some, indeed, have gone so far as to chat with union members, right there in the plant, and make friendly inquiries about the family.

And there's worse to come. A few of the mills plan to have carols played on the organ during the Christmas season. Some corporation presidents, no less, may write "cheery letters" all about "peace and good will during this joyous season."

All of which has won the wicked bosses a loud impeachment. Steel Labor, the union's official paper, has unmasked it as an "insidious wreck-and-ruin plot" cooked up by "greedy industrial planners." Christmas or no Christmas, the back of your hand to peace and good-will.

Of Course Marley warned that you lost nothing by passing a pleasant word, and that even Scrooge would be rewarded for a bit of friendliness. But then Marley was dead to begin with, and those spirits of Christmas were only ghosts. So perhaps it was, after all, a fairy-tale full of humbling.

The Pennsylvania Story

School Subsidies

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Pennsylvania's school lobby has not fared too well during the current and now petering out 1959 session of the Legislature.

In an educational nutshell — the 1959 session is not scheduled to go down in the history books as anything approaching "outstanding" insofar as schoolmen are concerned.

The 1959 session has not been an "education-plus" session.

On the other hand the school lobby as such, has not hampered on legislative doors with the vim, vigor and determination of recent sessions in support of pro-school legislation — with perhaps good reason.

In the first place this year's gathering of Pennsylvania's legislative gentry has been one of those "tight-lipped" sessions — on a comparative basis — wherein lawmakers have been more on the grudgingly grumpy, giving side rather than the free-for-all vein that oftentimes has keyed preceding sessions of the contemporary note.

To begin with for example, new in office Governor Lawrence started off his fiscal voyage with a despairing deficit of $176,000,000 (subsequently reduced to around $140,000,000) inherited from the preceding Leader Administration which left anything but a palatable taste in the mouths of legislators.

In other words, the initial psychological — and practical — hurdle to be cleared involved wiping off the book this fiscal monstrosity, which in itself was not conducive to open-minded listening to pleas for spending, regardless of the "cause celebre."

On top of this the Lawrence Administration turned in a record-breaking overall budget request.

Perhaps fortunately for once, the school "lobby" took the cue early in the session and did not bang and box legislative cars in demanding support of their pet legislative programs.

Schoolmen will know that in recent sessions they have gained heavy concessions from the legislative branch in nearly every respect, ranging from increased school subsidies to considerably upped teacher pay minimums — long overdue in nearly every instance.

However the tenor of the current session became evident in the early stages. That tenor — one of the somewhat stubborn refusal to give in to various and sundry pleas whether on the subject of schools, social welfare and the host of other perennial legislative thorns that invariably crop up — has held amazingly firm throughout the course of the session.

For example, early in the session legislation backed by several statewide school organizations (HB 1108) was introduced providing for a layout by the state of some $200,000,000 a biennium in increased subsidies to local school districts.

The bill withered on the vine for several months until finally the Administration-controlled Democratic House moved the bill — but with the $200,000,000 whittled down to $55,000,000.

The legislation was "sucked in" in the GOP-controlled Senate and now finally readied for action by the upper house this week — but with the subsidy boost chipped down to a possible $20,000,000!

And even this, if passed, faces a gubernatorial veto unless the legislative branch comes up with a means of paying for the boost.

In all of this, the school lobby has remained fairly quiet, again comparatively speaking. The handwriting is clearly on the wall and appropriately, they can read it.

It is somewhat typical of the manner in which Pennsylvania's school lobby has fared this session. There have been some gains it is true, such as the legislative decree that notwithstanding the new market value certifications of the State Tax Equalization Board which in most cases would have resulted in lower subsidy reimbursements to local school districts, the subsidies shall not be lower than last year.

This however has been the exception. On the whole, the 1959 session quite definitely has not been a "school session."

George Sokolsky Says...

More About Guides

A publisher writes to me: "It took us about 15 years to get one of our publications indexed, and then only because a publication that was being indexed folded up. We got nothing but run-arounds and alibis."

"Decisions were always made by a group of librarians, and their next time for decision was always coming up and always postponed. And since the librarians were familiar only with magazines that were already being indexed — well you can see what happens."

This is not a scientific approach to indexing and as I am particularly interested in what our young people read, I intend to pursue this subject.

When a high school or college student is ordered to do a term paper, certain material is to be found not in textbooks but in magazines, in weeklies, monthlies and quarterlies. It is likely that both the instructor and the librarian will point to the "Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature" as an index.

Nothing is said anywhere about this not being a complete index. Nothing is said about its being limited to a few publications. Nothing is said about the possibility of certain important periodicals being omitted not for good and sufficient reason but because they are not voted in by librarians and such who may not know them.

The reasons given by the H. W. Wilson Co., the publishers of the Readers' Guide, sound very much as though this book were like the Social Register which is an esoteric publication, the manipulations of which are held in the deepest secrecy by a pair of ladies whose sanction is undisclosed. There is also a paying business, although their particular book serves a different and to many, an unimportant function.

The Readers' Guide, however, is important because it influences the thinking of youth. Youth wants to know and youth needs to know.

The elimination of any group of publications for any reason whatsoever leaves the reader with a limited point of view, without knowledge that others have written on the same subject from another standpoint. There should be no monopoly of access to intelligence.

I have letters giving the names of publications omitted from the Readers' Guide. I have other letters showing that some new publications get in faster than some that have been long published in the same field. This information needs to be sifted before one takes on the responsibility of reporting it.

Truly this is a problem that the American Library Association ought to study both scientifically and ethically. I put to them this problem: two publications in the same field are available:

Both are continuously published. Both have value in the field and durability. Why is one indicated in the Readers' Guide and the other not?

Why are so many conservative periodicals omitted? Are they omitted because of their circulation or because of their content? But why is it that those that are omitted are conservative?

Or shall I take the point of view of a publisher who says that his books have been omitted because they are competitive of other publications which are included?

That seems to me to be an unethical practice and no responsible house, such as H. W. Wilson, the publishers of the Readers' Guide, would resort to anything so culpable. Nevertheless, there must be a better explanation than has been given for this limitation upon knowledge. One librarian wrote to me to make a sharp distinction between a "Guide" and an "Index." This is specious semantics.

The fact remains that the guide is used as an index and is about the only general book of its kind and is very important, particularly for young students.

My own study of college textbooks has made me suspicious of everything that looks like an "orientation." When I was a student, a long time ago, I had professors of various attitudes such as Charles A. Beard who then was an Economic Determinist, and Carlton Hayes who was a Roman Catholic Thomist, and Vladimir Simkhovitch who was an anti-Marxist Socialist.

One could argue and debate with such men and one learned much. They were giants. They did not fear being bowled over by a sophomore. Today professors seem to need to satisfy their egos by brainwashing their students. This surely is a very dumb way to teach or to edit an index to periodical literature.

Abigail Van Buren

Time Is Of The Essence

Dear Abby: Our granddaughter, 21, has made her home with us for years. She is a good, sincere, intelligent girl who has a fine position. She is saving her money. She's deeply in love with a man, 24, who has been home from the Navy for three years. He hasn't worked three months in all that time. We see his mother pulling weeds and mowing the lawn. He sleeps until noon, drives the family car around and doesn't look for a job.

So far, even my granddaughter's best friends have been unable to make her see this man for what he is. I am afraid she will marry him and support him unless we can change her mind. Can't you offer some advice, Abby?

CONCERNED GRAND-MOTHER

Dear Abby: Regarding the rural mailman who wanted all the mailboxes on his route lowered: Our post office people changed their entire fleet of trucks recently and we all had to lower our boxes four inches to accommodate the mailman. All six thousand of us!

Sincerely yours, Mrs. O. W. S. Mountlake Terrace, Wash.

Dear Abby: That rule about rural mailboxes having to be from 42 to 48 inches from the ground was made in the horse and buggy days. Since Detroit started making automobiles to scrape the ground, the regulations states that rural mailboxes should be from 36 to 42 inches high. A rural mail carrier has from 300 to 400 boxes a day to serve, and he breaks his neck to give good service. Do you think people should expect him to also break his arm?

FRIEND OF RURAL MAIL CARRIERS

Dear Abby: I wear false teeth but the girl I am going to marry doesn't know it. Should I tell her about it or wait until we're married and let her find out for herself?

FALSE TEETH

Dear Abby: Marry the girl and keep your mouth shut.

What's your problem? For a personal reply, write to Abby, care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Allen-Scott Report

Bootleg Nuclear Tests

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — U.S. military and nuclear authorities are mystified and disturbed by a series of "artificial earthquakes" in the Lake Balkash region in Siberia — site of Russia's main atomic weapons testing range.

These strange man-made quakes have been admitted by Semyon Tsarapkin, chief Soviet delegate at the Geneva negotiations on banning nuclear tests. But that's all.

Efforts by the U.S. and British delegates to obtain additional information from him have been met with either silence or the assertion that "more time is needed to assemble our data in report form."

The U.S., Britain and Russia voluntarily suspended nuclear tests in 1958. There have been no U.S. tests of any kind since the Fall of that year.

Washington officials are split on the nature of these "artificial earthquakes."

Nuclear experts of the Joint Chiefs of Staff strongly suspect they are secret underground atomic explosions. This is also the theory of former Atomic Energy Commissioner Thomas Murray, now chief consultant of the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee.

After studying all available classified information, Murray believes the Soviet is conducting "bootleg nuclear tests."

State Department authorities, however, are skeptical of this view.

In their opinion, Russia "would not risk" staging unannounced nuclear weapons tests at this time, when they are supposed to be halted, and when Premier Khrushchev is frequently and loudly proclaiming his desire to temper the cold war in preparation for the long-discussed summit conference next Spring.

At the same time, it is conceded at the State Department the U.S. now lacks the technical means of determining whether these mysterious quakes are the result of nuclear explosions TNT or some other explosive.

Atomic Energy Commission Chairman John McCone frankly says his agency doesn't know. So far his scientists have been unable to ferret out this important answer.

Highly Suspicious — In the U.S.-British questioning of Soviet delegate Tsarapkin, at the Geneva conference, this much was learned:

The "artificial earthquakes" have taken place near Lake Balkash, in the huge nuclear testing region in Siberia. Some of the most important Russian tests have been in the vicinity of this lake.

Avowed purpose of these man-made quakes was to "determine the structure of the earth to a depth of more than 60 miles, and to test new seismic equipment."

The underground explosions were recorded as far as 250 miles. However, no U.S. or British seismographs reported them.

Former Atomic Commissioner Murray contends that subterranean detonations of this magnitude would require "stupendous amounts of conventional explosives."

Long a major problem at the Geneva parley is what to do about underground nuclear tests. Not only do they present still-unresolved difficulties in detection, but they are being urged for a variety of peaceful purposes.

Both Pentagon and Atomic Commission officials strongly favor the latter.

A series of underground nuclear tests by the U.S. Britain and Russia will be proposed by Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd at the NATO foreign ministers meeting in Paris next week. He will urge that the three powers agree to lift their test ban for such a round.

M. Jules Mohr, French delegate to the Disarmament Commission, in an unpublished report, reveals a number of significant details regarding the Lake Balkash nuclear testing region.

Fifty-five Soviet tests have taken place there since 1945. Ten towns are located in the area. The largest is Pavlodar with 60,000 population.

Flashes — Intelligence has definitely established two facts regarding those Panamanian riots: At least four of the principal "inciters" were Cubans sent to Panama expressly for that purpose. All were well-heeled, and throughout their operations they stressed violence against the U.S. The other factor is that political foes of President Ernesto de la Guardia helped foment the disturbances to discredit him in the hope of forging him to quit. Panama has a national election next May.

Despite President Nasser's recent wooing of the West, he is still getting Russian arms. His latest acquisitions are two late-model Red destroyers, giving the navy of the United Arab Republic a total of eight of these vessels, plus nine submarines, 40 torpedo boats, and a number of other ships. However, despite this sizable navy, Egyptians are not among its top officers and technicians. They are either Russians or Poles.

Try and Stop Me—by Bennett Cerf

Gene Fowler, master of the inflated expense account, once alleged that a story he had tracked down in Juneau, Alaska, had involved outlays totaling $1,200. When an unfeeling auditor demanded a breakdown of this amount, Fowler submitted this list: Ear muffs: $200; sled, $400; rental of dogs, $300; Eskimo driver, $100; hush money to driver when lead dog died, $198.50; wreath to lead dog's widow, $15.00. Total: $1,200. Please remit."

Myron Cohen tells about an ex-dress manufacturer who has made a new life for himself as a building contractor. "One problem in my new line we haven't got," he boasted. "There are no returns. Who'd send back a building?"

A famous, egomaniacal film producer was holding forth on the futility of producing fantasies under prevailing market conditions. "The public won't go for that kind of stuff," he announced categorically. One intrepid listener demurred. "How about 'Here Comes Mr.

Jordan?" he said timidly. "That was pure fantasy—and it netted a clear profit of $600,000!"

"All right," conceded the producer, "it made $600,000. But if it hadn't been a fantasy it would have made six million!"

Poem for a junior promenade by Richard Armour:

With evening gown backless and filmy for fair, There was much, in her words, that had merit: She said, with a sigh, she had nothing to wear. And darned if the girl didn't wear it!

Just Between Us—

—By Bobby Westbrook

At the moment, I'll have to admit less than all-out enthusiasm for discussing "The Family Fall-Out Shelter." Only kind of fall out I'm worrying about right now is that white stuff.

And I wouldn't say that it was exactly fall-out either. More jet-propelled sideways and seeming to come from whichever direction you were facing at the time.

However, I promised Catherine Miller I'd tell you about the booklets available for you during Civil Defense Week at the First Stroudsburg National Bank or CD headquarters. Duly I've read all about how you build shelters, from the do-it-yourself basement type for about $200, to the prefab at $700, to the deluxe job at $1,000 to $1,500.

Among other interesting information, I learned that 16 inches of books would provide sufficient shield for most radiation fall-out. That's my kind of shelter. By the time I had read my way out, layer by layer, it would be all clear.

However, it would scarcely be practical for a large family, and this is really a practical book, and nothing to joke about. As a matter of fact some women are taking this shelter preparation so seriously that, while they were canning this fall, they canned some jars of water for the family shelter. Sufficiently sterilized, it will be good indefinitely.

Each shelter is supposed to be equipped with enough stuff so the family could stay there for 14 days if necessary. The equipment is listed in the book, too.

Not listed, however, is a new canape idea I snatched from Doris Shinn: cream cheese balls rolled in curried coconut. Not something you'd want to live on for two weeks in a fall-out shelter, but a very unusual taste for holiday party.

And for being so flip about a very serious subject about which a lot of volunteers are doing a lot of hard work, it would serve me right to get snowbound for two weeks with nothing but books and cheese balls to keep me company.

Gearharts Welcomed After Four Years In Turkey

The Charles R. Gearharts, after four years in Ankara, Turkey, left just a little too soon to pay their respects to President Eisenhower when he made his visit there. Mr. Gearhart had met the president personally when he was on the reception committee with Dr. Milton Eisenhower when the President visited Pennsylvania State College.

However, the Gearharts are happy to be home. All 12 of the children of the late Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gearhart, of Gilbert, were present to welcome them back the day after they arrived in this country.

Mrs. Dorothy Lettler was host to the family at a dinner at the Village Inn, Allentown, to catch up on the news.

Charles Gearhart has been working with the USDA for the improvement of dairy cattle in Turkey for the past four years. Previously he was on the faculty at Penn State in dairy extension work.

Mrs. Gearhart also found herself busy in Turkey where one of her main interests was the Ankara Orphanage.

Plenty of Patterns
One of the amusing stories to come out at the reunion was the case of the Pattern Deluge. Mrs. Gearhart had written to friends at home that they could use discarded patterns, particularly for children's clothes, in their work in Ankara.

The request was relayed to the home economics extension service and circulated through county groups, including Mon-

Decorate Your Plants For Christmas Season

By Eleanor Ross
One of the nicest gifts received last Christmas was a podocarpus plant its tall growth beautifully decorated with ornaments scaled to the size of this interesting house plant and all so prettily done that it resembled a junior Christmas tree.

As a finishing touch, the tub was festooned with ribbons and clusters of ornaments.

To Be Decorated
The plant did well during the year and this year we will decorate it as nicely as we can, although we do not expect to attain the original artistry.

House plants lend themselves splendidly to the holiday decorating scheme and just a critical look at that philodendron or pot of ivy should be productive of good ideas.

Brighten Bare Corner
The tall, split-leaf philodendron against a shaft of bark offer an exceptionally good background for decoration and, nicely handled, would brighten an otherwise dull corner. Here's how to give it the Christmas tree treatment.

Wire together tree ornaments such as small red, silver or gold balls. Pass fine florists' wire through the loop of each ball and tie in small clusters.

Tie to the bark carefully and arrange artistically as a background to the beautiful green leaves, tapering the arrangement to the top in tree outline.

Another Variety
The spreading cordatum philodendron is also a good decorative bet.

Arrange pine cones sprayed red, gold or silver on plant-support sticks and attach with fine wire. Push sticks into the soil, placing carefully so that the cones are well distributed.

Philo again, for another notion. This time it's one of those tall philodendron trees and the idea is to beautify it by spotting tiny birds here and there amid the branches.

Attach Birds
Attach tiny birds to bare twigs inserted in the soil or attach tiny tree ornament birds to twigs. Perch a particularly pretty bird atop the whole arrangement.

Even if you're not planning to actually decorate your house plants, their containers should, at least, get a bit of holiday

Owners Report French-Made Renault Dauphine Cars Averaging About 40 Miles Per Gallon Of Gasoline

THE SMART looking Renault Dauphine has been dubbed "The car that makes driving fun again". The reason is obvious in so many ways. This attractive four-door import from France has ample comfort to accommodate four people and gets up to 40 miles per gallon.

According to Robert Ziegler of Barrett Auto Service in Cresco, local dealers for Renault, the lowest mileage figure yet turned in is 33 miles per gallon with some owners reporting as high as 43 miles per gallon. Of course, the driving habits of the individual account for the differences.

The engine of the Dauphine is a rear mounted, four cylinder overhead valve model and is water cooled. This "perky"

RENAULT DAUPHINE for 1960 offers the utmost in comfort, good looks, and also in economy. Car sells for $1695, gets about 40 miles per gallon and is available at Barrett Auto Service in Cresco.

COMPLETING THEIR 100th YEAR of manufacture of fine furniture, Frederick Ducklode and Brothers offer a broad variety of room groupings, individual pieces and room accessories. The Ducklode showroom located on the main thoroughfare in Portland, Penna., offers the shopper leisurely browsing and competent assistance in choosing really distinctive gifts for everyone on your list.

Ducklode Furniture Is Made With Attention To Detail

WHAT MAKES Ducklode Brothers Furniture popular as gifts, year after year? The answer lies in the fact that this line of fine furniture has been produced year after year with the same painstaking attention to detail and quality.

Nearly a full century has gone by since the first all hand-crafted Windsor Chair was delivered by horse and wagon by Frederick Ducklode in 1859. In 1898, William Ducklode, father of the present brothers was born.

William Ducklode was trained in the "old school" . . . to produce by hand skill the comb and loop pattern Windsor chairs which are considered by many collectors of Americana to be the finest known. Very limited was his production over many years because of this handcrafting. Very limited was the scope of tools; never had power tools been used; never over the years had any mass production facilities been considered.

Today Frederick Ducklode and Brothers, Inc. is owned and managed completely by the three brothers who have been trained in the same tradition of the fine old school, a knowledge passed grandfather to father, to sons.

Atlas Tires Help Prevent Skidding

MOTORISTS should be very cautious this time of year about the condition of the tires on their cars. George S. Wagner, Esso Dealer of Mount Pocono, has a word about the newest development in tires.

But you never saw a caterpillar skid! Wherever he wants to go, a caterpillar gets there with no sliding or skidding even on the most slippery surfaces. That's because he has dozens of little feet all working together. When Atlas designed the Plycon Cushionaire Tire, they used the same principal.

They put the same kind of traction on this tire . . . with hundreds of tiny gripping edges that help prevent skidding. They grip slippery roads . . . make quick stops much safer. George Wagner's at Mount Pocono now has a complete selection of factory-fresh Plycon Cushionaires and he'll be glad to demonstrate them to you.

They have dozens of improved features — with super-strength cord material and a new tread compound that helps lengthen tire life by up to five percent. You can buy Plycon Cushionaires at surprisingly low prices.

little engine is coupled with a three speed combination transmission and differential. Shifting is a breeze and the three speeds keep the car moving easily along with traffic, cruising on the open road at 50 to 55 m.p.h. and topping at an honest 72 m.p.h.

Handling this little princess is a joy for everyone . . . it steers easily and responds to the slightest touch of the wheel . . . parking is effortless and slipping through traffic is a breeze.

The Renault Dauphine laughs at winter weather . . . weight of the engine on the rear wheels allows it to keep moving when other cars are stuck.

Passengers are kept comfortable by a two speed heater with separate outlets for front and rear seat passengers. Defroster vents across the entire width of the windshield keep the windows clear in even the most severe weather.

From start to finish, owning a Renault Dauphine is a delight and the easiest car on the pocketbook you have ever owned. Drive one out of the showroom in Cresco for just $1695 and that includes the heater, electric windshield wipers, smart chrome trim, deluxe bumper guards in front and rear.

This car is so complete in design and equipment that only four extras are listed . . . whitewall tires, radio, sun-roof for those who like that "convertible feeling" and for those who wish, an automatic clutch (Ferlic) which eliminates the clutch pedal.

Here's a thought to please the whole family this Christmas . . . a new 1960 Renault Dauphine $1695 or the 4CV at $1395. The savings in gas alone will allow you to go two to three times as far as in a conventional car, for the same amount of money.

The price is unbeatable, the upkeep is low and driving a pleasure. See the Renault Dauphine, "The car that makes driving fun again" at Barrett Auto Service, Post Office Building in Cresco.

One Bathroom Not Enough For Family

NOTHING seems to "unravel" a person quite so much as having to stand in line to wait his turn for the bathroom in the morning. Really there's no reason to put up with it.

D. Katz & Sons are staffed and equipped to take care of the problem. Many times modernizing of a bathroom or addition of a powder room can make a great difference.

The children (if you're a family) can use the powder room for washing up and readying themselves. A large closet is ideal for this extra facility or perhaps a corner near the hall.

Kitchens, too. At any rate, if you'd like to plan such an additional facility, call HA 1-1464 and ask for Bob Collins of D. Katz & Sons Plumbing and Heating Division.

Kitchens, too, need improvement, and you'll find the job of preparing meals and so many other chores that the housewife must do can be accomplished with ease in a well planned kitchen.

A new sink near the window will make her life brighter. Remember, this is her place of work and should not still be designed or planned in the tradition of the 1920's.

Look to D. Katz and Sons Plumbing and Heating Division for the best at a budget price.

How would YOU settle the steel strike?

1 The key issue of the steel strike is simple: who should get how much for doing what in the production of steel?

Everybody who can read can understand the argument when it is simply presented, and can form his own opinion as to how it should be settled.

Moreover, everybody has a right to an opinion in this strike because everybody is affected by it.

But the simple truth needed to form an opinion has, thus far, not been publicly presented.

Here it is:

2 The incorrect assumption that has confused collective bargaining in the steel strike (and many others) is that wages should go up just as fast as production-per-man-hour goes up.

This theory has been accepted in the United States by most industries ever since World War II.

Obviously, as long as this theory prevails the consuming public will never again have the advantage of the lower prices that used to follow improved hourly productivity.

This error is based on the faulty conclusion that the human energy of the workers is responsible for the increased production.

As a matter of fact, less than 5% of the energy used up in steel production is supplied by the worker—the remaining 95% comes from the tools supplied for the worker's use.

To say that the steel workers supply the energy that makes steel is like saying that the locomotive engineer supplies the energy that hauls the train.

3 So, in steel, as in all manufacturing, credit for the production belongs to two groups of people: those who SUPPLY the tools and those who USE them.

A "set of tools" for a steel worker, that is, the production facilities per employee, amounts to $20,000.

In 1958 the reward to the stockholder for supplying this $20,000 set of tools was about $900, made up of about $600 in cash dividends plus the future benefit of about $300 of profit reinvested in the business.

Last year the reward per employee for using this $20,000 set of tools was $6,456, made up of $5,846 in cash plus $610 in future benefits.

The hard core of the argument is that the negotiators for the steel workers want increases which would require that the companies take away part of the payment for supplying the tools and add it to the payment for using them.

The companies have offered increases providing that the union will agree to certain changes in work practices that would lower the production cost of steel.

This the unions have not agreed to do.

Both sides claim to be firmly opposed to providing higher wages through higher selling prices.

There you have the heart of the issue—the facts on which public opinion should be based.

Both sides have talked themselves out, and it is now just an old-fashioned "tug of war."

4 No one in his right mind would suggest that the worker receive only the share of production that his energy accounted for.

Such a policy would give the tool owners a fabulous reward, far out of line with the amount needed to stimulate saving and investment.

But no one in his right mind would suggest that the reward to the tool owners should be so small as to make them unwilling to continue to provide the tools on which the progress and welfare of the tool users depend.

In America, during times of peace, we have never had laws controlling wages and profits—we have always worked them out through free bargaining, which depends upon common sense and the spirit of fair play.

In this longest of all steel strikes, bargaining has broken down.

There are only two forces that can break the deadlock, GOVERNMENT ACTION which could sign the death warrant of free bargaining, and the FORCE OF PUBLIC OPINION which is the true supreme court in any free nation.

5 Another angle from which to view this matter is the overall distribution of the steel dollars received from the customer in 1958. Here it is:

Cost of Outside Goods and Services.....	42.3 cents
Cost of Human Energy (Payroll, Benefits, etc.)....	38.2 cents
Cost of Payments to Government (Taxes).....	7.8 cents
Cost of Tools Wearing Out (Depreciation, etc.)...	5.4 cents
Cost of Using Tools (Dividends and Reinvestments)	6.3 cents
Total	100.0 cents

These figures were derived from the consolidated certified reports of the companies whose combined output represents 95.2% of the steel ingot production in the United States.

6 If YOU, personally, were the final judge in this settlement what would YOU do?

If YOU had $20,000 of your savings in steel stocks, would you think that your reward for supplying more than 95% of the productive energy was too much, too little, or about right?

If YOU were making your living using the $20,000 set of tools, would you think that your reward for supplying less than 5% of the productive energy was too much, too little, or about right?

It is high time that the general public, which is YOU, and YOU, and YOU, stopped being a disinterested, indifferent audience and started to make its opinion felt.

Whatever that opinion is, make it felt in your circle of influence whether that circle be great or small.

Talk about it, write about it, lay down your reasons for your judgment as to who should get how much for doing what in the steel industry.

If this strike is not settled with regard for the public interest it can turn into an American tragedy because the pattern of this settlement will become the pattern for many other industries.

Nats Ready To Trade Jim Lemon

LOOK FOR THE Washington Senators to put their top pitcher of the past season, Jim Lemon, up for trade shortly.

Lemon, working as a furniture salesman in the off-season, says he knows a trade involving him is in the mill and he seems to think he'll be wearing a Cleveland uniform next season.

When the Washington Redskins fired halfback Mike Sommers early in the season they were doing him a favor.

The Baltimore Colts picked up the speedy halfback and he now holds down a starting berth with the National Football League Western Division leaders.

The Skins, who have been having halfback troubles since they let Sommers, the ex-George Washington player go, are struggling along with a three and eight record.

Somers was scouted by the Skins even before he was graduated from high school. The Washington Scouts were in the stands when Sommers, playing in a Washington high school championship game ran for six touchdowns in one half.

The University of Alabama, which meets Penn State in Philadelphia's Liberty Bowl, is one of the few major colleges in the country without a Pennsylvania boy on its squad.

In fact the Crimson Tide has only one player from North of the Mason-Dixon line.

Home Court Not Such A Blessing

The advocates of the home court advantage in basketball received a severe blow Monday night.

Wake Forest knocked off North Carolina State in State's back yard and St. Louis University dumped Kansas State in Jayhawk territory. It was the first home floor defeat for Kansas State since 1957.

Tom Nugent, University of Maryland football coach is such a perfectionist that when he was coaching at Virginia Military Institute, he spent one practice period teaching his team how to come out of a huddle.

There's not a golfer on the PGA circuit that will bet that when Art Wall draws his putter back on a 20-foot putt he won't sink it.

George Bayer, the power golfer, says the reason he doesn't score too well is that he hits the ball too far.

Says Bayer, "Where most players use a full wedge, for their tee shots, I have to hit a half wedge and I can't get the ball to stop where I want it to."

Beginning January 1, golfing duffers get a break. Unplayable lies, lost balls and balls out of bounds will be assessed only one penalty stroke instead of the two now in effect. The change will last for one year.

Sebo Joins AFL Group In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Fired from his head coaching job at Pennsylvania a week ago, Steve Sebo Monday was hired as general manager of the New York Titans of the new American Football League.

The 45-year-old Michigan State graduate got a three-year contract and a big boost in pay from a college classmate, sports broadcaster Harry Wismer who is president of the Titans and one of the founders of the AFL.

A source close to both said the salary was in the neighborhood of $25,000 a year, probably twice what Sebo collected from Penn.

Sebo was released by Penn last week after he led the Quakers to the Ivy League championship and their best season in 12 years.

The team finished with a 7-1-1 record. In his six years at Penn Sebo's teams had an 18-35-1 record.

"I'm glad to get into the administrative end of the game," said Sebo at a press conference in Wismer's Park Avenue apartment. "It's a change and a challenge."

Sebo and Wismer said they would start serious work immediately on lining up a head coach.

"We've got five or six men in mind and we hope to make the decision before long," said Wismer. He declined to disclose the possibilities.

Sebo said he would be in charge of player personnel and the scouting system.

"I'm going to see a couple of bowl games and take a look at some of the players we've drafted," said Sebo. "There will be room for plenty of players."

Schoolboy Court Season Opens On Road Tonight

Mounties Against Queen City Five

STROUDSBURG high lifts the curtain on the 1959-60 basketball season today, traveling to Allentown to meet Dieruff High in an exhibition encounter.

The varsity game will get under way at 8 p.m. and will be preceded by a junior varsity tilt at 7 p.m.

The Mountaineers of Bob Wert have been working hard the past three weeks, attempting to get a combination clicking on all cylinders.

Stressing height and rebounding strength, Wert has come up with a quintet he hopes will move the West Main St. school high in court circles this season.

Four Vets

Strodsburg has four returning veterans, including its leading scorer of a year ago, Todd Williams. Others back are Leo Frailey, John Martin and Johnny Carson. All four are seniors.

Another candidate being counted on to share a big part of the Mountaineers' burden is transfer student Roy Loeffler. The former Long Island, N. Y., schoolboy is expected to team with Williams to give Wert's team an efficient one-two scoring punch.

Wert may start Williams, Loeffler, Mike McMahon, a newcomer from the junior varsity, Carl Kohl, and Frailey or Carson.

Rest Of Team

Other members of the squad who have been making impressions in their pre-season drills are Warren Loney, John Baylor, Doug Wright, Doug Kitson and John Taylor.

Allentown Dieruff has won its first two games, both exhibitions. The Queen City five is built around three former Allentown high stalwarts who were forced to transfer to the cross-town school in a new alignment of students.

In its last start, Dieruff bested a formidable Wilson team by one point.

Statistics Leader

Superbly coached by Ben Schwartzwalder, a former West Virginia center, the Orangemen swept through a 10-game schedule, scoring at least three times on every foe and dominating final college statistics.

They led the nation in total offense, rushing offense, total defense, defense against rushing and in scoring. They piled up 390 points and yielded 59.

They demonstrated such poise and power, even to three-team depth that some selectors gave Syracuse the first two places on the ballot and let other teams follow after that.

Three voters gave the No. 1 designation to Syracuse's reserve team with the regulars rated No. 2.

The Orangemen were the only major team to complete the season without defeat or tie. They will play Texas in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1.

They demonstrated their championship qualities in the final game of the season. With the regular schedule over for most of the other teams, they took their No. 1 rating against upset-bent UCLA before a national television audience.

The final standings, based on ten points for a first place vote, nine for second, etc., with first place votes and won-loss records in parentheses:

1. Syracuse (134) (10-0) 1768
2. Mississippi (47) (9-1) 1444
3. Louisiana State (6) (9-1) 1284

Two Games Set For MSL Opener

MONROE SCHOLASTIC Basketball League officially opens its campaign tonight with four of the six teams scheduled for action.

The MSL inaugurals find Chestnuthill traveling to Pocono Lake to battle Tobyhanna Twp., and Coolbaugh visiting Tannersville for a tussle with Pocono Twp. High.

Junior varsity games between the involved schools start at 7:15 p. m. and varsity contests get under way at 8:30 p. m.

Tobyhanna Twp. is the league's defending champions. The charges of John Bush, with three veterans dotting the lineup are pre-season choices to go all the way again. Heading the Pocono Lake team is Larry Altomere, Ed Luck and Barry Weirich, first stringers a year ago.

Chestnuthill is in the rebuilding process and Coach Bill Frear, one of the league's best strategists, has been devising systems to stop the rest of the loop.

League Debut

A new coach will make his debut in the league this year. He is Sam Everitt, veteran basketball official and court mentor, who is now tutoring Coolbaugh.

Everitt has an inexperienced five to toss at his opening circuit foe, Pocono Twp.

Harry Werkheiser again will be at the helm of Pocono Twp. The former East Strodsburg Teachers graduate is building his club around Norb Vishnesky, a big-size board specialist.

Werkheiser won the league titles two years in a row in the 1956-57 and 1957-58 seasons.

Barrett and Polk, the league's other two entries, will make their MSL debuts Friday night.

Russian Star Blasted By Red Press

MOSCOW (AP)—Another Soviet athletic hero has come afoul of public opinion.

Accused of having succumbed to "star disease," gymnast Dmitry Leonkin has felt the blunt end of an attack in Komsomol Pravda, paper of the Communist Youth League.

It took up where Leonkin's mates on the Ukraine gymnastic team left off, in a letter demanding that Leonkin be stripped of his title of master of sport and fired from the team.

He is accused not only of being snooty but of disgraceful goings on with two young ladies described in the story as having "violet lips." What they are alleged to have done is depicted in the paper's article only with asterisks.

Available record books here don't show it but the paper says Leonkin won gold and silver medals for the Soviet Union in freestyle gymnastics in Helsinki in 1952 and rates him as one of the six best gymnasts in the country. The records show he tied for third in the rings event.

Leonkin not only is accused of a number of misdemeanors but the prosecutor in one case is accused of finding excuse for Leonkin's actions "because he was drunk at the time."

E-burg Has Height And Experience

THE EAST Strodsburg Cavaliers make their entry into the basketball wars at Phillipsburg tonight with six seniors seeking berths on the starting quintet.

The seniors are Bill Hillman, John Hindman, Roland Gartner, Doug Metzgar, Ray Uhl, and Doug Diamond. All are lettermen except Uhl and Diamond.

Coach Doug Schoonover points a disconcerting eye to the cage season after a scrimmage with Leighton in which his squad didn't "look too good."

However, the mentor emphasized that the presence of good team height and experience among the first six competitors will have a lot to do with the team's success.

Kindred Gone

Lost from last year's squad are Jim Kindred, all-league center and holder of the school's scoring record, and Alex Sydelnek, another strong scorer.

Schoonover looks to Fountain Hill and Parkland as the top squads in the Lehigh-Northampton loop with Pen Argyl looming as a darkhorse.

Fighting for positions on the Cavalier team are juniors and sophomores Brian Farris, Glen Kane and Harold Myers.

Two other juniors, Jack Fellman and John Sandstrom, are nursing football injuries and expect to join the squad shortly.

Bryant Brings Fine Record To Philly

PHILADELPHIA — One of the great coaches of American college football will lead Alabama's Crimson Tide onto the field against Penn State Saturday, Dec. 19, in the first annual Liberty Bowl game at Philadelphia Stadium.

In 15 seasons as head coach, Paul (Bear) Bryant has won 103 of 158 games. He directed Kentucky into four bowl games, Texas A&M into one and now leads the fabled Tide into the school's 13th post-season clash.

Bryant was top tutor at Maryland in 1945, at Kentucky 1946-53, Texas A&M 1954-57 and the past two seasons at Alabama, his alma mater.

Prior to World War II, during which he served as a "eutenant Commander, he was assistant coach both at Alabama and Vanderbilt.

Everywhere he's gone, Bryant has lifted the school from mediocrity into a formidable football force. These achievements have earned him the name, "the great rehabilitator."

In one season at Maryland, Bryant carved a 6-2-1 mark. In the eight at Kentucky, he compiled a 60-23-5 record, raising the Wildcats from the depths of Southeastern Conference football into four bowl clashes — Great Lakes (1947), Orange (1949), Sugar (1950) and the Cotton (1951).

Eastern fans will remember that Bryant's Kentucky eleven whipped Villanova in the Great Lakes game, 24-14. Oklahoma, rated number one in the nation, fell 13-7, to Kentucky in the Sugar clash, and Texas Christian was beaten, 12-7, in the Cotton. Santa Clara scored a 21-13 triumph in the Orange encounter.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Give a good account of yourself now, and don't forget those little things which may seem unimportant, but which should be considered in respect to the whole.
May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Where you may see now (and wish you hadn't) are in the departments of thoroughness and tolerance of those who disagree with you. Be alert!
June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — A better day than you may give it credit for being, but you must cooperate. Show due respect for others, regard for their feelings. Keep smiling.
July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — There is no better time than now to get at those bothersome tasks that can upset your disposition and schedule. If you permit, you can make this day work for you. Get in there and pitch.

BRADFORD (AP) — The 40 & 8 organization of McKean County Sunday adopted a resolution urging its national unit to eliminate racial restrictions on its membership.

Altitude Test Chamber Is Developed By Army

AN IMPROVED high-altitude test chamber that duplicates conditions met by missiles and satellites 100 miles above the earth has been put in use at the U. S. Army Signal Research and Development Laboratory at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey, the Department of the Army announced today.

Atmospheric pressure in the stainless steel chamber can be reduced to simulate the virtually air-free environment found 100 miles above the earth. Although satellites and missiles reach much higher levels than this ionospheric zone, many conditions are the same at the higher altitudes.

The chamber, which will aid in advancing the national space program, provides a new and highly accurate means to insure before launching that equipment and components have been engineered to retain their operating stability.

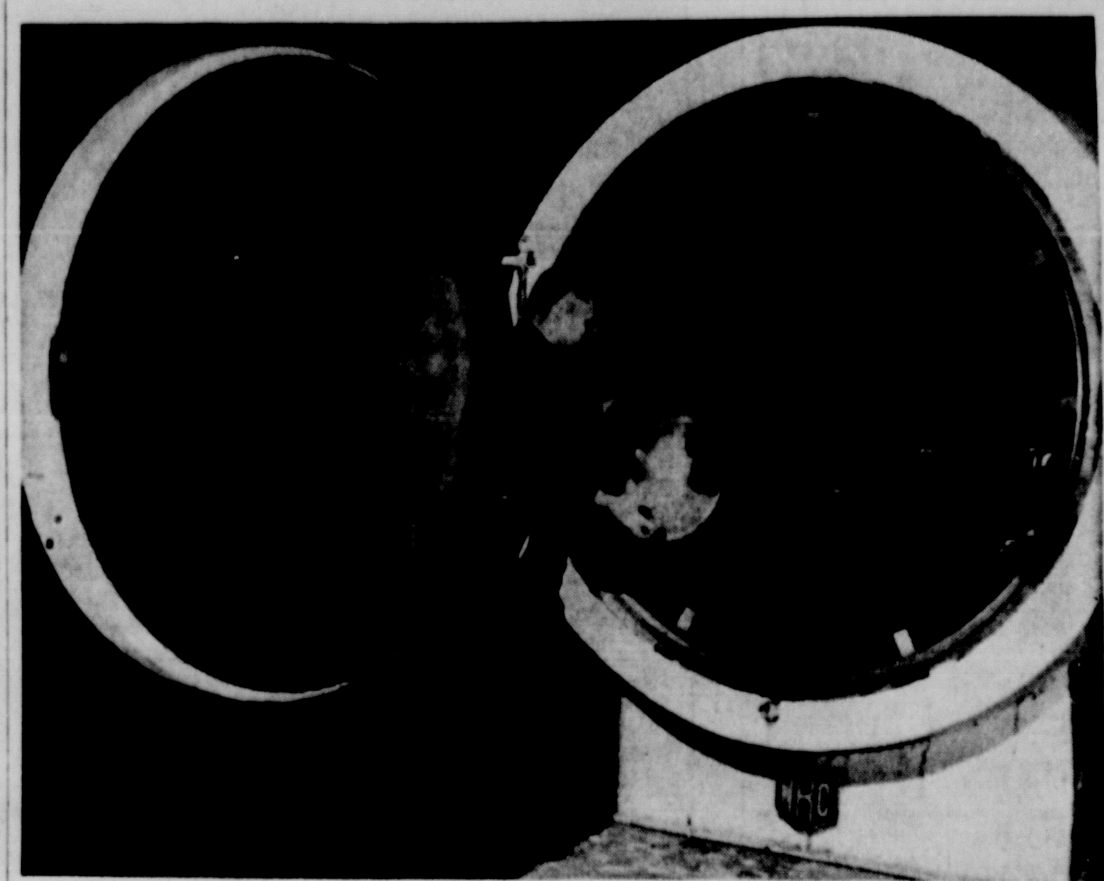

The new test chamber, a stainless steel cylinder eight feet long and five and a half feet in diameter, doubles the simulated altitude of the 200,000-foot stratospheric chamber previously used. It can withstand a surface pressure of 15 pounds per square inch when air is pumped from the inside.

Vary Temperature
A highly efficient refrigeration system and an array of infrared heat lamps make it possible to vary test chamber temperature from 90 degrees Fahrenheit below zero to 300 degrees above.

Engineers of the Laboratory's Equipment Analysis Division established the performance characteristics of the space test chamber. It was built on contract by the NRC Equipment Corporation, a subsidiary of the National Research Corporation, Newton, Massachusetts.

The space cylinder is the latest in a series of test chambers installed by the Laboratory over the years. During World War II, chambers were built to insure that signal equipment would operate capably under world-wide conditions.

SPACE SIMULATOR—This test chamber at the U. S. Army Signal Research and Development Laboratory, Fort Monmouth, N. J., duplicates conditions found 100 miles above the earth. It is being widely used to insure that altitude-sensitive parts for missiles and satellites will function properly after launching. At right, Joseph Fournier, refrigeration engineering technician in the same division, prepares to check out a satellite's instruments. While satellite orbits are much higher than 100 miles, many of the conditions encountered at the higher levels are essentially the same as the environment created in the chamber.

'The Daily Investor'

By William A. Doyle
Q. Can these two viewpoints be reconciled?

On one hand we are told that ownership of common stocks provides a good protection against the "creeping inflation" that we are bound to experience. On the other hand we are told that, because the yields on many bonds are higher than yields on many stocks, bond prices are likely to decline.

Where does this leave the investor (not the speculator) in common stocks right now?

A. It leaves him in the same position he has always been in—if he is really a long-term investor.

Ownership of common stocks in sound, well-managed companies—companies with a bright future—have more than outpaced inflation in the past. They should continue to do so.

This doesn't mean that all stocks are going to do well. Some will remain stagnant in price and some will be complete flops. And the prices of even the best stocks will fall from time to time.

But the long-range trend in prices of good stocks is up. If you are going to worry about short-term price swings, you can't call yourself an investor. The high yield in interest available on bonds isn't a new thing—even though it does surprise many newcomers to the market. This is simply a repetition of a situation that has happened often in past generations. Bonds today are a good investment for people who are interested in income and the relative safety that debt securities offer.

However, if you have faith in the future of this country, you should have faith in good common stocks.

And, in the same line of thought, why accept the theory that inflation is inevitable? These United States have taken a clobbering from inflation in the past. But the battle isn't lost yet. Don't be so ready to throw in the towel.

Stocks Vs. Bonds

on current dividends.

Q. You have mentioned General Dynamics as a growth stock. Can you possibly explain how you can realistically count this one as a growth stock?

A. Yes. This stock has a good record in growth of both earnings and dividends over the years. The market value of the stock has also moved up. The price dipped from time to time, as should be expected. Right now the stock is quoted well below the prices it hit earlier this year and last year.

The stock of this supermarket chain is counted as having a good future. But keep in mind that the more growth you look for the more risk you have to accept. Even at present prices, Food Fair common stock is selling more in anticipation of the future than is that's not growth, what is it? And the stock is still considered worthwhile. What do you want—perpetual upward motion?

Q. I am interested in investing some money in stocks which will grow in value. Is Food Fair common stock considered a growth stock?

A. That's easy. Adjusted for stock splits, the earnings per share climbed from five cents in 1949 to $3.71 in 1958. In the same period (again adjusted for splits) the dividends per share went from 50 cents to $2. The stock (still adjusting for splits) sold as low as $4.25 a share in 1949. It sold as high as $66.50 a share earlier this year.

Esau

Wife Tricked Isaac Into Giving Blessing To Jacob

"And Isaac loved Esau, because he did eat of his venison: but Rebekah loved Jacob."

—Genesis XXV:28

ESAU, who was so-called because his body was covered with red hair, was the twin of Jacob.

Isaac, who was in many ways a typical father, seemed to favor Esau, who represented a man's way of life—strong, self-reliant, active. But Rebekah, their mother, realized that Jacob represented the spiritual qualities, the soul heritage of man. For that reason she was inclined to favor him.

One day, when Esau came in from a hunting trip, tired and extremely hungry, he asked Jacob to give him some pottage he had prepared. No doubt at the prompting of Rebekah, Jacob told Esau that he would feed him if the elder twin would renounce his birthright.

"Behold, I am at the point to die," Esau replied. "What profit shall this birthright do to me?" So he sold it to Jacob for bread and lentils.

Later, as their father grew old, "and his eyes were dim," Isaac called Esau and asked him to go out into the field and bring home venison, which was his favorite dish.

Overhearing this, Rebekah counseled Jacob to kill two kids from the flock while Esau was away. With these she made a savory meal that closely resembled the venison Isaac preferred.
